At Auſt (or the Old Paſſage) it is about two miles over to Beachley, in the pariſh of Tidenham, Gloceſterſhire. This is the direct way to Newent, Newnham, and all the Foreſt of Dean, Herefordſhire, Worceſterſhire, and the upper part of Monmouthſhire.

At the New Paſſage, it is about three miles over at high water to Port Skewith, near St. Pierre, in Monmouthſhire. This is the direct way to Cardiff, Caerleon, Pontypool, and moſt parts of South Wales.

As the croſſing at either of the above Paſſages depends on the winds, it is neceſſary to obſerve, that they diſtinguiſh but two winds for paſſing, viz. winds below, and winds above.

Winds below, are when it blows up the river Southerly or Weſterly. With theſe you may paſs during the ebb or going out of the tide, which is 7 hours.

Winds above, are when it blows down the river Northerly or Eaſterly: with theſe there is 5 hours paſſing, on the flood or coming in of the tide. When the wind is S. E. or N. W. it is directly acroſs the river, therefore you muſt be at the Paſſage where you intend to croſs, an hour before high water.

The difference of paſſing at Auſt and the New Paſſage, varies about an hour; tide coming in, wind above, New Paſſage is an hour ſooner than Auſt; tide going out, wind below, Auſt is an hour ſooner than New,
